Axolotl- the world's most awarded aesthetic surfaces company- debuts in the USA at the IBS show in Las Vegas

Connecticut, December 9th 2022. Axolotl will be participating in the next edition of the International Builders Show, IBS, in Las Vegas, next January 31st of 2023 until February 2nd at Booth C6327.

Axolotl will be showcasing Garage Doors, Entry Doors, Kitchens, Bathroom Ware and many more interior and exterior design products. There will also be two official ribbon cutting ceremonies and a press conference, all held on Wednesday 1st of February at the show.

Founded in 1995, Axolotl provides surfacing solutions for architects, designers and builders through a range of authentic metal, concrete and terracotta surfaces and architectural glass. Axolotl adheres genuine metal to the surface of any substrate, rendering the surface with the appearance of solid metal, but without any of its limitations enabling integration through a chemical and mechanical bonding process with virtually any substrate.

Logic and ethics compel us to change how we apply metal and concrete to our built environment to reflect a planet that respects the scarcity of resources and elevates the dexterity of engineering over traditional forging processes.

Axolotl uses only recycled and repurposed materials and no hydrocarbon producing fuel burning kilns to evolve design. Axolotl have re-engineered two of the most polluting building materials on the planet by atomizing metal and significantly decarbonizing concrete.

Don't miss out on Axolotl's American Debut and contact us for a courtesy guest pass.
